

Please do not weaken Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. As a citizen of Indiana, I have been truly grateful for the stoppage of countless telemarketing calls. Most of these calls came from my own credit card bank, and they refuse to take a simple "no" for an answer. It gets to the point where I am forced to be rude to the salesman or just stop answering my phone. I do not want these invasions to start up again. I do not enjoy being rude to these people. I do not want to contact every agency I do business with to beg them not to bother me. I shouldn't have to. I have expressed my wishes clearly by signing up for the no contact list. The Telephone Privacy Act provides an extremely valuable protection for the citizens of Indiana. It has overwhelming popular support. Please allow Indiana to protect its citizens without interference. Thank you.
